PRESS RELEASE

MOUNT PROSPECT POLICE DEPUTY CHIEF TIM JANOWICK GRADUATES FROM NORTHWESTERN UNIVERSITY'S CENTER FOR PUBLIC SAFETY, EXECUTIVE MANAGEMENT PROGRAM

On Friday, August 24, 2012, Mount Prospect Police Deputy Chief Tim Janowick graduated from Northwestern University's Center for Public Safety, Executive Management Program. The Executive Management Program provides law enforcement policy-making executives with effective skills to manage today's changing law enforcement environment. The three week program challenges participants to engage interactively. The program questions, investigates, and examines the critical issues that shape the current law enforcement operating environment.

Deputy Chief Janowick is an 18 year veteran of the Mount Prospect Police Department. He was promoted to the rank of Sergeant February 2003, promoted to the rank of Commander May 2007, promoted to Deputy Chief September 2010, and is currently the Deputy Chief of the Mount Prospect Police Department's Field Operations Division.

Mount Prospect Police Chief Michael Semkiu added, "Deputy Chief Janowick's graduation from the program speaks to his commitment to advancing his professional training and education and positions him well to continue in his current leadership role as a member of the department's command staff."
